

Strategic Sourcing in Latin America

Damon De La Pena Talks strategic sourcing, Latin America and supply chain from Dustin Mattison on Vimeo.

Situation: After gaining ten years of practical experience as a global procurement manager with Intel Corporation, including two two-year Intel international expatriate assignments in Asia and Latin America, Damon De La Pena struck out on his own. Today, Damon owns BDM Consulting with fellow former Intel colleague Richard Brady.

The Details: In this interview with Logipi's Dustin Mattison, Damon shares what he credits with putting his small consulting firm on the global map, as well as invaluable insights into strategic sourcing Latin America.

What it Means: Leveraging what the technology world has to offer and forming strong partnerships with like-minded companies, Damon says, has given him the opportunity to go global in a very short period of time. Click Here to Read Full Article...
